

The American Peptide Society has begun an e-seminar series for all members. As we all know, the 27th American Peptide Symposium has now been postponed to June 11-16, 2022. This e-seminar series will provide a platform to engage the peptide community and highlight exciting advances in peptide science. The e-seminar will run over a virtual platform and will consist of a 40-minute presentation followed by 20 minutes of Q&A. This will also be followed by an informal social hour.
